3 exciting concerts in this year's Series !

Plus 2 great Single Concerts

When I first walked into St. John's with my young family, my first thought was "What a great place for a concert!". Musicians are always looking for places to play and St. John's was a "find".

Over the past four years or so, many others have found that it is a great place for concerts. Audiences have enjoyed the superb acoustics, the informal ambience and the consistently high quality of performance.

Please come and join us. Bring a friend and nurture your soul.

In addition to providing fine music in the Bloor West Village, St. John's is committed to helping community organizations. Concert proceeds will be shared with HAAD, a grass roots organization for adults with autism, Campbell Village Ontario, a community for adults with disabilities, the Early Enrichment Daycare, and Just Us, an outreach program for prisoners at the Don Jail.

This is a rare opportunity to catch this exciting ensemble of four singers and nine instrumentalists. Fresh from the release of their second CD, the group offers an evening of music from the glorious cantatas of Johann Sebastian Bach. The singers are among the most sought after in Canada and the indeed the world. The instrumentalists are culled from the TSO, the Cleveland Orchestra and the Tafelmusik Orchestra.

Joan Watson
in concert
(Associate principal French
Horn player with the TSO)
Saturday, April 4
8 p.m.

If you've been to a few TSO concerts you'll know that Joan Watson can really play the french horn. In addition to her work with the orchestra she has branched out, playing recitals that include transcriptions of popular songs and some of the masterworks for the french horn. At this concert she hopes to be celebrating the release of her first CD with a few of her musical friends. This is your opportunity to hear a magnificent instrument beautifully played.

Susan Hookong

4th Annual Children's Concert
with Toronto Symphony Bass Quartet
Saturday, February 28
2 p.m.

It seems like St. John's has adopted these four guys from the TSO double bass section. Previous years' programs have included visits from Bassman and Rosin, Bassaroo, Bob Rae (as pianist and broom artist), and assorted vocalists, violinists and trombone players. Who knows what they'll come up with this year? Whatever it is, you and your children will be entertained.
