Thursday (to noon)	35

Death registrations at the office of the City Clerk up to noon to-day showed a total of 22 from Spanish influenza and 9 from consequent pneumonia. The deaths from all causes aggregated 35. These figures bring the epidemic's toll of lives in this city up to 850, of which 272 were from the disease itself and 578 from pneumonia and other complications. The number of deaths from all causes during the month of October to 12 o'clock to-day has reached 1,174.

After 11:30 so many registrations were received that the clerks were unable to have them tabulated at noon. The death list follows:

Influenza—Mrs. Rose M. Lindsay, aged 21, 233 Ashworth avenue, 11 days; Mrs. B. S. L. McLeod, aged 41, 239 Lippincott street, three days; P. H. Lind, aged 46, 333 Albany avenue, four days; Mrs. Christina D. Pneumonia—Sydney Trowell, aged 29, 4 Gertrude avenue, 12 hours; John Shearer, aged 30, 53 Balliol street, 14 days; James B. Beacham, aged 53, 130 Dunn avenue, seven days; Miss Jessie R. Weir, aged 26, 657 Euclid avenue, four days.

Encouraging Reports To-day.

Dr. C. J. Hastings, Medical Health Officer, to-day found further evidence to justify his belief that the Spanish influenza epidemic has passed the crest in Toronto. Many private physicians, in addition to those who reported yesterday, advised him that their calls have been reduced from 25 to 50 per cent. Numerous undertakers have announced that there has been a decided decrease in the number of burials. The demand for hospital accommodation is now not nearly so keen as during the past three days, and many of the Department of Health's substations reported great improvement.

The emergency hospital at the Women's College, in Rushmore road, now is practically ready for opening and patients will be admitted there either this evening or tomorrow morning.

The regulations that were in force last Sunday will govern next Sunday's church services. Some of the Anglican churches will hold their services in the district Catholic parishes. The other denominations will meet in the evening.

Reports from the various sub-stations of the Health Department are quite optimistic to-day. A summary follows:

Woodbine (East Toronto)—Calls less. Very short of nurses. No patients waiting for hospital accommodation.

Toronto (North Toronto)—Calls patients waiting hospital accommodation.

Moss Park (Yonge street to Don)—One patient waiting.

Parkdale—Situation shows improvement to-day. One patient waiting.

University—Situation shows some improvement to-day. Have been able so far to place all patients in hospitals.

West (North-west section of city)—Very busy.

The work of distributing 100,000 influenza instruction circulars to 3,000 employers has been completed by the Boy Scouts, under the leadership of G. G. Hammond.

The Rotary Club has decided to make a complete survey of the city, to learn the number of persons needing assistance.

In connection with the Victory loan meeting, planned for Sunday afternoon in Queen's Park, Dr. Hastings has recommended that there be several speakers busy at the same time, in various sections of the area, so that the people will not all be in one huge crowd.

WHEN CARLTON AWOKE
HIS $400 WAS GONESidney Marchmont Receives a Three-Month Sentence in Police Court.

MOTOR RIDE FINALE

Young Lady Tells of Receiving $65 in Cash and $60 in Furs From Marchmont.

Found guilty of relieving David Carlton, his companion, of $400, Sidney Marchmont received a three-month sentence to the Jail Farm in the Police Court to-day. Carlton, the dapper young complainant, told of having fortified himself internally against the cool winds of the last of September and of having started out motoring with Marchmont. The trip ended at a Bathurst street residence, where Carlton was introduced to a young lady friend of Marchmont's and to her mother. "When I awoke my money was gone," formed Carlton's sudden ending.

Subsequently, she said, he had received $330 refund from Marchmont. His young hostess appeared and admitted having accepted $65 in gold cash and $60 in warm furs as presents from Marchmont. To-day the defendant stated that he was drunk, but less inebriated than Carlton, and that he took the money to take care of it. His presents of furs and cash received the Crown Attorney's reference as evidences of his solicitude. A second charge, that of negligent motoring, stands against him. This will be gone into on Monday.

Too Old at Thirty-Five?

In the charge of vagrancy, William Oates declared he found the summing up of all his ills. He found himself, same home, same friends, same funds. He put up with himself the heaped-up coil bins of the Jail Farm and yearned to go thither. Inadvertently he gave his age as thirty-five. "Why, you're young enough to fight," Magistrate Kingsford commented. Oates believed he was too old. The Court will put it up to the military to decide.

Going Up.

The cost of drinking, like the cost of living, has an upward trend. John Brown found this to his cost. Yesterday he added a $10 fine to the original cost of inebriation. Charged again to-day with further drunkenness, the court presumed he had celebrated the fine's moderation. "Have you any useful employment?" asked the bench. "Sure, I support my mother." The support, he explained, came from peddling. "You must make lots of money to drink as you do," the Magistrate decided. Fined $50 and costs or 10 days.

Farm and Fight.

Two enlisted men, Pete Fryburn, Harold Gough, Mark Pardy, John Kennedy and Alfred McLaughlin, three of whom were in uniform, faced the charge of being drunk and in possession of a stolen gun. They were taken from the haberdashery store of Wm. V. Conyn, 6 Gerrard street east. Conyn stated that the alleged theft occurred a week ago Sunday night. They entered the shop from the back, grabbed several suits and beat it, he testified. William Campbell, returned soldier, a friend of the defendants, stated that all of them except Pardy called for him before the alleged theft and invited him to "get in on it." They later called and asked him if he wanted a suit, he said. They young men, on their own election, go to a jury.

Break Out and Break In.

Breaking out of the Ontario Reformatory proved insufficient exercise for Ernest Young and Hugh Ives. They continued their callousness, the court heard, by breaking in the Davisville Military Hospital. They pleaded guilty to both bad breaks, but denied taking more than sweater coats. On the first count Young, who is a lengthy record, got three months, and Ives 30 days. On the shopbreaking charge they got four months and two months respectively. Daniel J. Pyburn was associated with the duo on both charges. The first pair were while purely military matters, while he is doing a year for a motor theft, he got an added two months.

Blew In.

The breezy entrance which Geo. H. McGale made via the 530 Montreal express, waited a suspicious draught in the direction of Constable Arrow-smith. He scented out McGale's accomplices. Twenty-four quarts, no less, rewarded search and proved unrefutable evidence. Fined $300 and costs or three months.

Lawyer Goes For Trial.

John Loftus, a local barrister, goes to a jury for trial on the charge of having stolen $3,000 from Mrs. Mary Hayden. Mr. T. O'Connor, appearing for Loftus, stated that the charge arose through a mistake in accounting. The $3,000 had been given Mr. Loftus by Mrs. Hayden for investment. It was submitted that the plaintiff had been completely reimbursed.

BURGLARY IN YONGE STREET.

Window of Jewelry Store Broken and Rings Worth $90 Taken Away.

A burglar threw half a brick through the plate glass window of George E. Holt, jeweler's shop, 776 Yonge street, during the night and stole three rings valued at $90.

THE WAR REVIEWED

Significance of Events Reported To-Day

General Haig is showing great determination in his advance on Landrecies and Le Quesnoy. In yesterday's attack on this front, which is due east of Cambrai, the British captured more than six thousand Germans and many guns. The enemy's resistance was obstinate, none the less so because natural conditions made it difficult to employ tanks. The British, however, gave them no rest during the night after the hard fighting throughout the day and this morning resumed the attack. They appear to have advanced fully four miles on a front of nearly fifteen miles. If they can keep after the enemy with the same vigor for a few more days, the German resistance at this point is likely to break. Unofficially it is reported that the village of St. Amand has been captured by allied cavalry. The British now are within a mile or two of the village of Landrecies, where they fought with desperation during the terrible retreat from Mons in 1914. At that time the German commander-in-chief was striving to obey the peremptory order of the Kaiser Wilhelm that the contingent OUT OF THE WOODS YET.

The map appearing herewith shows the allied gains since the 11th of October. During the last thirteen days very marked changes in the battle-line have taken place between the Aisne and the North Sea. The retreat wedge driven into the enemy's positions east of Cambrai caused the Germans to evacuate the huge Laon and Lille salients on either side, the British have been hammering in the wedge. During the last two days tenaciously to their ground opposite during which operation they held great wedge driven into the enemy's the wedge again and threatening to make new salients which might be called the salients of Tournai and Vervins. Owing to the renewal of the pressure in the Landrecies and Valenciennes and to French pressure east of Laon, the enemy is meditating new retirements which would take him away from the Scheldt River on both sides of Tournai and from his present front between the Olse and Serre Rivers. There are indications that important operations soon will be attempted by the French and Americans between Vouziers and Dun on the high ground between the upper Aisne and the Meuse River, where any material progress would imperil the left flank of the German armies and one of their most important lines of retreat. The German forces in France and Belgium may not be in deadly peril, but they are not out of the woods yet.

DECLINE OF 45 IN NUMBER OF ENEMY'S DIVISIONS.

The allies' offensive has not been under way as long as that of the Germans in the spring and early summer, but the results are immeasurably greater. Here is a rough comparison of the results obtained:
